NIPPON'S WAR
MOVES KNOWN
BEFORE CLASHMARSHALL ADMITS
FORECAST OF JAP
AGGRESSION

BY WILLIAM T. PEACOCK
Washington, Dec. 10 (AP)—Gen. George C. Marshall acknowledged today that the army knew more than 10 days before Pearl Harbor that the enemy was on the move in a direction that might take him past the deadline where American military chiefs believed we should fight.

The move was the embarkation of about five divisions aboard 40 to 50 transports at Shanghai, headed south. It was reported by army intelligence November 25-26, 1941.

Senator Ferguson (R-Mich.) questioned the retired chief of staff at the hearing of the Senate-House committee investigating Pearl Harbor. Ferguson recalled that Marshall and Admiral Harold R. Stark, then chief of naval operations, had recommended on November 5 that no military action be taken against Japan unless she moved south of 10 degrees north latitude.

The senator asked if it were not a "fair statement" that the army knew the Japanese move might take troops across that line.

"Yes sir," Marshall replied. From the former chief of staff, the committee also received testimony that he approved proposed photographic reconnaissance flights over Japanese mandated islands in November, 1941. Marshall said that as he recalled the flights were never made and the planes which were to make them were caught by the attack on Pearl Harbor December 7, 1941.

The general also related that Britain suggested before the war's outbreak that the United States base some of its fleet at Singapore, but the American high command demurred because, among other reasons, it feared the ships would come under Japanese air attack.

Ferguson had personally questioned Marshall for more than seven hours and still had not completed his examination when the committee recessed until tomorrow.

The order for photographing Japanese-mandated Truk, Jalut and Ponape was issued the day after a November 25 White House meeting of the so-called war council. Its members were Secretaries Hull, Knox and Stimson, and Marshall and Stark.

Ferguson wanted to know if it was discussed at that meeting.

"I don't recall, probably so," Marshall replied.

Telephone Avoided
Ferguson recalled that Marshall had testified he did not telephone a warning to Hawaii December 7, when a break with Japan was expected, because the Japanese might have listened in and treated a war warning as an "overt act."

His written message did not arrive until after the attack. In disclosing the British suggestion that some American warships be based at Singapore, Marshall remarked that "we had assumed that in Pearl Harbor we had a reasonably secure base for the fleet."

In his opinion, it would have been "catastrophic" for the United States to have simply stood by had Japan moved into the South China Sea without directly attacking this country.

Arrangements were worked out

Gen. Patton's Condition
Critical After Mishap;
Wife Flies To Bedside

BY JAMES F. KING
Heidelberg, Germany, Dec. 10 (AP)—Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., was in critical condition today, but his rugged physique has sustained him in resisting the initial shock of a broken neck and partial paralysis, Army doctors said.

Today's final bulletin from the U. S. 130th Station Hospital in Heidelberg said:

"General condition maintained, reacted well to initial shock. Dislocation of vertebrae is responding satisfactorily to extension. Condition remains critical."

It was the first time the word "critical" was used in describing

U. S. WITHDRAWS
FORCES IN IRAN

Less Than 6000 Troops
Involved; Russia Has
75,000 In Country

Washington, Dec. 10 (AP)—An expedition of 2,000 fresh American troops recently sent into Iran as replacements for high point men will be withdrawn this month along with all other United States forces there totalling under 4,000.

This was learned at the state department today in response to inquiries. The department also furnished as background information the fact that an estimated 75,000 Russian troops are now in northern Iran and upwards of 5,000 British combat soldiers are in southwestern Iran.

The Russians thus have 15 times as many combat troops as the British in the troubled Middle Eastern country, according to the reports reaching the state department from Tehran.

Removal of the less than 6,000 United States non-combat troops—the only ones left in Iran—may disrupt operation of the army's air transport command route from the United States to India by way of Europe or Africa.

To avoid a shutdown, officials were disclosed, the Iranian government has started negotiations with Transcontinental and Western Airlines of the United States to operate the big ATC field at Abadan temporarily.

This operation, according to state department information, would last only until next spring, under the proposed agreement with TWA, and at that time the way-stop on the route to India would be shifted to a new army air transport command field now being constructed at Dahrhan, Saudi Arabia.

German Officers
Call Eisenhower
Greatest General

BY GEORGE TUCKER
Nuernberg, Dec. 10 (AP)—Gen. Eisenhower was regarded by German general staff officers as the greatest general of the war because of his able planning, daring and the extent of his authority.

The opinion of general staff officers was disclosed by Maj. Gen. Erwin Lahousen, star prosecution witness in the war crimes trial and chief of sabotage in the German intelligence service, in an exclusive interview with the Associated Press.

Lahousen said that Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov of the Red army, Britain's Field Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery and German Field Marshal Fritz Erich Von Manstein ranked close behind "General Ike."

"Eisenhower had the broader view," said Lahousen, "and was the greatest planner of the war." "He had what all great commanders must have if they are to realize their potentialities—full authority to make any decision he chose. He never was hampered by political considerations. He took great gambles, as in Africa and later on the French beaches, but he won and that justified his daring."

Women Foil Bandit
In Detroit Hotel

Detroit, Dec. 10 (AP)—A would-be bandit forgot today that the female is reputed to be the more deadly of the species.

He pointed a gun at Mrs. Essie Webb, 52, a hotel clerk, and demanded money. She gave him a punch in the face and grappled with him.

Then Catherine O'Neill, 25, a guest in the hotel, hit him over the head with a stool.

The man fled.

the condition of the U. S. 15th Army commander, who was injured yesterday when an Army truck crashed into the sedan in which Patton was returning from a pheasant hunting trip. Previous bulletins, said his condition was "serious."

Patton was described as being paralyzed completely below the fractured third cervical vertebra in the neck, and as suffering from a dislocation of the fourth cervical.

The latest bulletin clearly indicated that Patton still was conscious.

Mrs. Patton, flying to his bedside, was expected to arrive in Paris at 6 a. m. (midnight, EST) tomorrow, and will travel immediately by rail to Heidelberg. With her is Medical Corps Col. Roy Glenn Spurling of Louisville, Ky., a neuro-surgery specialist.

At Mrs. Patton's request, Brigadier Hugh Carnes, neuro-surgical consultant to the British army, has come to Heidelberg and is in consultation with Lt. Col. Gilbert Phillips, commanding the surgical division treating head injuries at British military hospitals.

FUTURE CLOUDY
FOR STATE FAIR

Farm Organizations Ask
Change To Centrally Located Site

Lansing, Dec. 10 (AP)—The future of the state fair remained uncertain today following the second hearing before a state administrative board committee on proposals to move it from Detroit.

The fair has not been held since 1941; when the Army took over the fairgrounds on North Woodward Ave. in Detroit. Legislative action would be required to change the site.

Representatives of the Farm Bureau and Dairy Breeders Association today told the committee they wanted the fair moved to a centrally located, preferably near East Lansing but not connected with Michigan State College.

Martin Butch of Comstock Park, representing dairymen, said the change would "improve farm attendance at the fair and improve exhibits, and give the fair back to the farmers." He charged the "fair grounds and surroundings aren't suitable for teen-age groups."

Milton Grinnell, editor of the Michigan Farmer, also supported a change in the fair site, asserting that "a good state fair should be an educational institution, not just a show."

Countering pressure to move the fair, the Detroit Tourist and Convention Bureau, represented by Carl Sedan, advocated "taking management out of politics and improving it." He declared the fair should be a combined "agricultural, industrial and entertainment event, giving a common meeting ground for rural and city folks."

Discharged Soldier
Ordered Interned
As Full Nazi Spy

Washington, Dec. 10 (AP)—Attorney General Tom C. Clark today ordered the internment of Sgt. Frederick Emil Bauer, describing him as "a full-fledged German spy who came to the United States on an espionage mission" for Hitler.

Clark announced that the justice department arrested Bauer at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indianapolis, Ind., today just as an officer of the Fifth Service Command issued him a discharge without honor.

He will be held as an alien enemy pending a hearing on his repatriation to Germany.

The order for his arrest terminated Bauer's dangerous to the peace and safety of the United States, Clark's announcement said.

Charlevoix, Mich., Dec. 10 (AP)—Aircraft Sales Company of Cadillac, Mich., has received a contract to fly mail, passengers and freight between Charlevoix and Beaver Island during the winter months, Postmaster J. M. Foster announced today.

Three flights weekly are scheduled after Jan. 1 until navigation ceases. The mail boat, Mary Margaret, will continue to make three weekly trips to the island until plane service begins.

TRUMAN PLAN
SMELLY MESS,
LEWIS CLAIMSCONGRESS ADVISED
NOT TO ACT
IN HASTE

Washington, Dec. 10 (AP)—John L. Lewis today assailed the Truman plan for curbing major strikes as a "foul-smelling mess," and Eric Johnston cautioned Congress against acting in "haste."

Lewis, leader of the United Mine Workers, appeared before the House labor committee considering the proposal to set up fact-finding boards to inquire into big labor disputes. While the boards were functioning strikes would be barred.

"This legislation," said Lewis, "would be the first drastic thrust with the knives of absolutism in the heart of America." He called it also a measure "to appease and protect a few millionaires."

Changes Recommended

Johnston, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, followed Lewis to the witness stand to recommend several changes in the legislation. He said Congress "should not act in haste—before the Christmas holiday for instance."

He said he favored fact-finding procedure but urged that legislation be carefully drawn, so it is regarded as an aid to voluntary arbitration and not a substitute. All action should be "as voluntary as possible" to insure good labor-management relations, he asserted.

"If you take away my liberty I fight you," Lewis told the House labor committee. "I say that for myself and I say that for labor."

Under the administration plan, big strikes would be barred while fact-finding boards inquired into labor.

Lewis caustically assailed the present application of price controls, which he proposed be ended immediately. He said there was nothing Congress could legitimately do as far as stopping strikes is concerned.

Six Dive Bombers
Missing Over China
In Show Of Power

Peiping, Dec. 10 (AP)—A show of force by American Marine air power over strife torn areas of North China may have cost the United States at least 12 lives.

Six dive bombers are unreported and have been overdue more than 48 hours, it was learned today.

The planes, each a late version of the Curtiss Helldiver and each carrying at least two men, left their base at Tsingtao Saturday. They were scheduled to rendezvous over Taku, river mouth port for Tientsin, then sweep in formation up the river and return.

Marine fliers said they had been told these shows of force were to wave the American big stick before the noses of Chinese Communists and central government forces and that most flights were scheduled over areas where local clashes were most prevalent.

Search For Naval Airmen Called Off;
Patrols Continued

Miami, Fla., Dec. 10 (AP)—The navy today called off its mammoth special search for 27 navy airmen who disappeared in six planes last Wednesday.

"Planes and surface craft which travel the area where the airmen are believed to have disappeared will remain on the alert indefinitely," the navy reported, "but the special search is being ended as of today."

The navy announcement came a few minutes after a Coast Guard cutter had raced seaward when one of the planes engaged in the hunt had reported that it had sighted "something which might be a parachute," 180 miles east of Melbourne, Fla.

Later the cutter, the Vigilante, radioed that it had scoured the particular area without locating anything that might be a clue.

Sixty-six planes resumed the search at dawn today.

Housing Jam Cancels
Farm Week; Veterans
Sleep In Gymnasium

East Lansing, Dec. 10 (AP)—A shortage of housing facilities has caused the cancellation of the 31st annual Farmers' Week, scheduled Jan. 28-31 at Michigan State College, it was announced today by President John A. Hannah.

An increase of 1,500 war veterans over the 665 enrolled at M. S. C. during the recent fall term is expected for the winter quarter, Hannah said, and to provide housing facilities for the returning servicemen alone will be a difficult task. "It would be almost impossible to find sufficient rooms for persons attending Farmers' Week," he added.

E. L. Anthony, M. S. C. dean of agriculture in charge of Farmers' Week, said "we believe Michigan farmers will be very much in sympathy with the cancellation of Farmers' Week this year to comply with the needs of men and women who served their country in time of war."

Anthony said the college would provide facilities during the winter for farm groups which require annual meetings, but that no general meeting will be held on the campus until the housing situation is improved.

Hannah announced the gymnasium of Jensen field house, among the nation's largest athletic structures, is being filled with double-deck beds to sleep 600 incoming veterans and the third and fourth floors of the Union Memorial building, student clubhouse, is being equipped to house 250 more.

The state board of agriculture will be asked to buy 100 quonset-type huts to house 1,200 veterans, Hannah said. Demonstration Hall is being turned into an administration center for veterans courses.

GOERING ASKED
NEW YORK RAID

Nazi Air Chief Wanted
To Stop Mouths Of
"Arrogant People"

BY WES GALLAGHER
Nuernberg, Dec. 10 (AP)—Nazi Air Chief Hermann Goering asked the German aircraft industry in 1938 to produce planes capable of carrying a five-ton bomb load to New York to "stop somewhat the mouths of the arrogant people over there," U. S. Assistant Prosecutor Sidney S. Alderman told the international military tribunal today.

As the American prosecution closed the case against the 21 Nazi defendants on the first count—conspiracy to wage aggressive war—documentary evidence piled up showing:

1. That Hitler planned in 1940 to seize Atlantic bases for future attacks upon the United States, but that six months later the Germans apparently lost taste for the project, and instead strove desperately to avoid embroilment with America while pushing Japan steadily into the war.

2. That German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop and Japanese Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka had low opinions of the U. S. Navy, which the Japanese foreign minister was certain his navy would be able to smash "without trouble."

3. That the Nazis made plans months in advance of the attack on Russia to strip the Russians of all food, necessities of life and raw materials.

4. That Ribbentrop, another defendant, and other top Nazis tried desperately, with glowing accounts of the advantages thereof, to push Japan into the war against the Russians, but that the Japanese warily stepped back such an attack.

5. That the Germans never envisioned an attack on Pearl Harbor as the first blow of the Japanese in the war, having told the Japanese the line of logical attack was at Singapore, but nevertheless when the Pearl Harbor attack came, Hitler and the top Nazis were pleased and heartily congratulated the Japanese.

As Alderman piled up documents involving Ribbentrop, the uncomfortable former champagne salesman was libel repeatedly by Goering and former Grand Adm. Erich Raeder. A few seats away sat former Nazi Security Chief Ernst Kaltenbrunner, just out of the hospital.

Detested even by his fellow defendants, Kaltenbrunner was ignored when he attempted to shake hands with them.

New Trial Acquires
Detroit Landlady
Of Killing Roomer

Detroit, Dec. 10 (AP)—Mrs. Rose Veres, 64-year-old Hungarian-speaking landlady, was acquitted today of a charge of murdering a roomer in her home, for which she has already served over 13 years in prison.

She fainted and slumped into the arms of her son, Gabriel, when the jury of eight men and four women granted her the freedom she has sought since 1931.

The jury debated its verdict for eight hours after a retrial that began November 26.

Her former neighbors in the Delray section of Detroit crowded around Mrs. Veres to congratulate her on the outcome. Juniors, defense attorneys, and the woman, herself, wept at the verdict.

Mrs. Veres was accused of pushing Steve Mak, a roomer in her home, from an attic window in order to collect about $4,000 in insurance.

She was convicted after his death on a first degree murder charge and served 13 years in the Detroit house of correction before winning a new trial.

most impossible to find sufficient rooms for persons attending Farmers' Week," he added.

CHICAGO HUNTS
BATHTUB KILLER

Stenographer Is Found
With Breadknife
Through Neck

Chicago, Dec. 10 (AP)—Police reported today a "kill crazy" maniac thrust a 10-inch breadknife through the neck of a pretty discharged Wave early today, pumped two bullets into her body and then scribbled this note in lipstick on her apartment wall:

"For heaven's sake catch me before I kill more. I cannot control myself."

The victim was Miss Frances Brown, 33, a stenographer discharged from the Waves last September. Her body was found by a maid in the bathtub of her blood-spattered, ransacked apartment at 8 a. m. today.

Police Capt. Frank Reynolds said the slaying appeared to be the work of a "madman" and closely resembled the fatal stabbing of Mrs. Josephine Alice Ross, 43, in her home in the same general neighborhood last June. Mrs. Ross' jugular vein had been severed and a strip of adhesive tape had been plastered over the wound to stop the spurt of blood.

Mrs. Martha Engles, maid at the hotel, said she found the door to the Brown apartment wide open and the radio blaring. The bed was blood-stained and the room in disarray with drawers opened and rifled.

Miss Brown's body was found in a kneeling position at the side of the bathtub with her head resting on the bottom of the tub. The knife was still in her neck, its point and handle protruding below each ear.

Captain Reynolds said police sought to question a dark complexioned, clean-shaven man about 35 years of age who was seen leaving the apartment about three hours before the body was found.

A solid cold belt with temperatures ranging down to 18 degrees below zero extended from the Rocky Mountains almost to the Appalachians, with the exception of the west gulf coast.

Coming on the heels of "Indian summer" weather in parts of the Midwest the cold wave plummeted temperatures as much as 48 degrees, adding to the discomfort. Chicago, where a high of 60 degrees was recorded Saturday, had a low temperature reading of 12 by Monday morning.

Steel Strike Date
To Be Set Today

Pittsburgh, Dec. 10 (AP)—A CIO United Steelworkers spokesman said tonight the union's 175-man wage policy committee will meet tomorrow to decide "the date of a nation-wide steel strike."

The spokesman, who declined use of his name, said the strike decision will be announced tomorrow afternoon. He added the "sometime in January."

Union members in 27 states have already authorized the calling of a strike which will affect about 650,000 steelworkers.

The teacher involved has denied inflicting undue punishment on the child, declaring she administered a few light blows with a rubber strap.

The court told the jury that the law gives a teacher the right to apply "the same punishment a parent might inflict."

Acheson And
Hurley Trade
Vocal Blows

Washington, Dec. 10 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Patrick J. Hurley said today that he had sought to stop a profit making British corporation from selling lend-lease supplies in Iran and 17 other countries.

The late President Roosevelt endorsed Hurley's suggestion "that the distribution of lend-lease supplies throughout the Middle East should be taken over by our own people," testimony showed.

And it was this policy, Hurley charged, that was wrecked by Dean Acheson, then an assistant secretary of state and now undersecretary.

Acheson, following Hurley to the stand before the senate foreign relations committee, asserted that "there is no policy I have blocked or destroyed" but acknowledged that he disagreed with some of Hurley's recommendations.

Hurley declared that Acheson "disregarded" his plan "in favor of monopoly and imperialism." Acheson replied that this statement was "utterly fantastic."

Trade Monopoly Sought

"The basic thing in Secretary Acheson's opposition," Hurley testified, "was that I contended that the United Kingdom Commercial corporation, a profit-making organization owned by Great Britain, should not be allowed to sell lend-lease supplies in Iran and 17 other countries for the purpose of building up a trade monopoly and excluding United States trade from those territories."

"I contended also that instead of creating imperialistic monopolies among weaker nations, we should furnish those nations with advisors, paid by them, in order to assist them to develop their own resources and not to enrich some imperialistic monopoly of foreign interests."

He read a letter from President Roosevelt supporting his plan. Acheson related that he had criticized Hurley's suggestions vigorously because "he thought they would entail some undesirable commitments for the U. S. But he conceded that Mr. Roosevelt's letter 'constitutes an overruling of my view.'"

Acheson explained that a small portion of lend-lease in Iran was handled by the British corporation because it would have been impractical to recruit and transport an American staff to do the job.

Hurley said that Acheson's view had prevailed until September, 1944. Then, Hurley continued, he made a report to Mr. Roosevelt containing charges against individuals who in Hurley's view were defeating the president's policies. As a result, Hurley added, two diplomats were withdrawn from Iran for not making American policy effective. He named them as Leland Morris and Lewis Dreyfus.

In his proposal to Ford, the UAW-CIO also offered a specific counter-claim to the company's proposal that wildcat strikers be fined. The union proposed that each violator be fined $3 a day for his first offense and $5 for his second.

In informing the union of termination of their contract, General Motors said it was acting under a contract provision which gives the corporation "the option of cancelling the agreement at any time between the tenth day of the strike occurs and the day of its settlement."

An umpire mutually agreed upon between the parties would act as "judge" in the "company security" proposal to Ford. He would determine the guilt or innocence of the accused party, against whom the charge would be brought by a company "grievance committee."

UNION OFFERS SECURITY FOR
THE COMPANYDEMAND FOR WAGE
INCREASE MAY
BY REDUCED

Detroit, Dec. 10 (AP)—The Ford Motor Co. and the CIO United Auto Workers cleared their negotiating agenda today for a discussion of the 30 per cent wage increase demand, the same issue which has idled 213,000 General Motors Corp. employees and led that company to cancel its contract with the union.

Richard T. Leonard of the auto union's Ford department, said the UAW-CIO has offered an unprecedented "company security" plan which he believes will be acceptable to Ford. The firm has promised to discuss wages at the next conference Wednesday, he added.

Leonard said also that the union will not demand "30 per cent or else" of Ford. Wage demands will be scaled down, he explained, if the company offers other contract benefits to the union.

GM Cancels Contract
But while the Ford picture brightened at least momentarily, the peace meetings between the union and GM were further jeopardized by the contract cancellation.

President C. E. Wilson of G. announced termination of a contract that dates back to the sit-down days of 1937.

He did so a few hours ahead of a mass demonstration that brought from 6,000 to 8,000 paraders to the 15-story GM headquarters here in what the union termed the greatest mass picket line in its history.

Secretary of Labor Schwelienbach, in Detroit for a speaking engagement, urged an early settlement of the GM strike in the interest of America's "economic life."

The labor secretary's plea came at a moment when the UAW-CIO is counting the first returns on rank and file balloting over President Truman's fact-finding proposal. The local unions have been asked to uphold the action of their leaders in opposing such legislation as the president suggests.

Fines For Violations
In its proposal to Ford, the UAW-CIO also offered a specific counter-claim to the company's proposal that wildcat strikers be fined. The union proposed that each violator be fined $3 a day for his first offense and $5 for his second.

In informing the union of termination of their contract, General Motors said it was acting under a contract provision which gives the corporation "the option of cancelling the agreement at any time between the tenth day of the strike occurs and the day of its settlement."

UNION OFFERS SECURITY FOR THE COMPANY

no lockouts and that management would not engage in "provocations leading to unauthorized strikes."

Officials Encouraged

"Financial penalties" — the amounts were not stated — would be imposed on persons engaging in such provocation. The company would impose these fines and the money would be turned over to the local union. John S. Bugas, Ford director of industrial relations, said there would be no commitment from the company until Ford officials had opportunity to study the proposal. He said, however, the company was "encouraged to see the union has given some consideration to the company's insistence upon company security."

"Our position is very clear," Bugas said. "For four years we have given union security through the union shop and a checkoff. Continuation of this union security depends upon the union in turn tangibly guaranteeing company security."

Schwellenbach, while insisting he would make no direct effort himself to intervene in the 20-day-old wage fight keeping General Motors 213,000 workers off the job, told a press conference it was "extremely important" that the strike be ended in view of the auto industry's influence on the nation's economy.

No Government Seizure

Secretary Schwellenbach replied with a vigorous "no sir" when asked if the government would seize General Motors plants in event negotiations failed. He told questioners the government had the seizure power under existing wartime emergency laws "but it won't be exercised." He said the power should be "used most sparingly."

The secretary of labor came to Detroit to make a speech tonight before a civic group and, although consenting to talk with a delegation from the striking CIO's United Auto Workers, said he would not intervene formally.

"For a new individual to interject himself in the negotiations now would not add to the possibility of settlement of the strike," Schwellenbach said, adding federal conciliators already were participating and "I don't feel I could be of assistance in one day."

Schwellenbach's statements, which included a defense of President Truman's CIO-assailed proposals for legislation to help labor peace, came as the auto union continued its negotiations with both General Motors and the Ford company.

Reopened GM-UAW negotiations over the union's 30 per cent wage increase demand were recessed until tomorrow. President R. J. Thomas of the UAW-CIO said the situation in the wage dispute was unchanged.

First the first time Vice President Walter P. Reuther, chief negotiator for the union, was absent from a session. He was ill with a cold at home.

In defending President Truman against CIO attacks, Secretary Schwellenbach said the president had no intention to "destroy" unions. Schwellenbach also cited Mr. Truman's "long friendship for labor."

The labor secretary said he personally would speak before congress committees in support of Mr. Truman's proposal for the creation of fact-finding bodies to act in major labor disputes. He said it was the president's "philosophy" that fact-finding bodies be used only after collective bargaining had broken down.

C Of C Committee Acts On Housing Problem Here

Three important steps toward a solution of the very real emergency which exists in Escanaba regarding the housing shortage were taken by the Chamber of Commerce housing committee at a meeting last night.

1. The committee will first conduct a survey of the situation here and as part of the survey appeals to all home-owners who have any available space which might be used as small apartments with a minimum of remodeling, to register at once with the Chamber of Commerce. An estimate of remodeling costs will be made free of charge by several members of the committee.

2. A survey will be made of all tourist cabins in the immediate vicinity with a view of having owners winterize those needing it and arranging, if possible, with the city and with bus company officials to provide means of transportation for the potential users of the cabins.

3. A resolution passed by the committee will request the city council to appeal at once to the National Public Housing Authority for information on the availability of demountable government houses now in defense areas which might be brought here.

The army intelligence service correctly forecast Japan's strategic moves. "What we foresaw and what actually did happen was a general move south," he said, adding that the attack on Pearl Harbor was simply a raid to prevent the U. S. fleet from interfering with the movement south.

Mobsters Convicted Of Pontiac Holdup Enter State Prison

Jackson, Mich., Dec. 10 (AP) — Five Detroiters convicted last week of robbery armed in the holdup of a Pontiac night club entered the state prison of Southern Michigan late today to serve long sentences.

The five—Harry Fleisher, Mike Selik, Pete Mahoney, William (Candy) Davidson, and Sammy Chivas—reached the prison about 5 p. m. (EST). The convicts came in two cars and were placed in the quarantine ward where they will remain for 30 days. Fleisher, Selik, Mahoney and Davidson face 25 to 30 year terms imposed Saturday by Circuit Judge George B. Hartwick. Chivas' sentence was 20-25 years.

Of these, 460 rose, 343 fell and 154 were unchanged.

Talk of boosted ceilings added to the metals. Hopes for labor peace by the first of the year, despite the General Motors stalemate, combined with a persistent pressure of idle funds for speculation or investment, again provided bullish inspiration. Many customers trimmed commitments on the idea the lengthy drive had weakened the technical position of the list.

At highs for the move were U. S. Steel, Youngstown Sheet, Packard, Studebaker, Chrysler, R-K-O, Panhandle Producing and Pacific Mills, the last named spurred to a 4 1/4 jump by a 2-for-1 split-up proposal.

Ahead were Republic Steel, American Telephone, Texas Co., Radio Corp., Standard Gas, Eastman, United Corp., Consolidated Edison, Philip Morris, International Harvester, General Electric and Dow Chemical.

General Electric was up 2. Bethlehem Steel ended off 1-8, an exception in this group. Eastern Air Lines lost 4 1/2 and General Martin 2 3/4. Lesser casualties were General Motors, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, Goodrich, Santa Fe Southern Pacific, Great Northern, Loew's and Johns-Manville.

Lifted in the curb were American Gas, F. W. Bliss, U. S. Foll, Day, Rubber, Mead, and Technicolor. Turnover here was 1,110,000 shares versus 1,090,000 in the preceding full session.

RAILS ACTIVE

New York, Dec. 10 (AP)—It was a railroad market again today in bond trading. A relatively large group of carrier loans moved up in price to a point and in some cases more as other major groups idled in a narrow range with activity to the south.

Sales of $7,300,000 compared with $7,900,000 last Friday. St. Paul bonds were lively on the advancing side with the 4 1/2 per cent on a when issued basis, a leader with gains of 3 1/2 points at 93 3/4. Loans of the Rock Island, Erie, and Great Northern, Florida East Coast, Katy, Morris & Essex and New York Central, together with 7.00 per cent Pacific, Rio Grande Western and New Haven were less prosperous.

Utilities made the best showing among higher priced securities. Telephone 3s got back to above 150, up 2 1/2 points after the fall last week. Commonwealth Edison, 3 1/2s, and Consolidated Edison 3 1/2s were among others ending higher. U. S. governments were mostly inactive. Brazilian loans steadied in the quiet bond list. The expected large-scale offerings of new securities, now that the Victory Loan is over, got underway with the sale of $75,000,000 Pacific Telephone 2 3/4s to a group headed by Halsey, Stuart & Co. on a bid of 102 1/2.

the leadership of the CIO-Auto Workers as demonstrating "stupidity" in the time they picked for the strike; and the government for failure to allow the company a price boost, which he said would bring a quick end to the dispute.

Lewis declared that "the blundering leaders" of the UAW showed "stupidity" in picking this time to strike because the company "makes more money now by not producing than it would by turning out cars." He attributed that situation to the excess profits tax the first of next year referring to the end of the excess profits tax to the provision for carry-back of losses against previous taxes.

The government, he asserted, "could settle the strike in ten days if it would allow the manufacturers a price which would give them a fair profit." He added:

"The dishonesty on one side by the company is equalled only by the stupidity on the other side by the labor organization. "I only hope Congress won't equal that stupidity by enacting this proposed legislation for fact-finding boards."

KIWANIS HEARS ABOUT DAIRYING

4 Delta County Farmers Engage In Panel Discussion

Breeding, feeding, disease control and management problems involved in the building up of a profitable dairy herd were explained in an instructive panel discussion at the meeting of the Kiwanis club held at the Central Methodist church Monday noon.

Jack LaMotte, who led the discussion, stated that the Delta county dairy farmers' receipts during the past year totaled one and a half million dollars. Herds of the Delta County Herd Improvement association are averaging 323½ pounds of butter fat, while the cows owned by the four dairymen, participating in the discussion, produce an average of more than 400 pounds of butter fat annually. These farmers are: George Larson, Danforth; Joseph Steff, Cornwell; Frank Barron, Flat Rock; and Clarence Sundquist, Pine Ridge.

Praised Bureau's Program

Mr. Steff, who started his herd of Brown Swiss in 1930, told the Kiwanis club he now is milking 24 cows. He praised the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau's better bull program as a means of improving dairy herds in the region, and also lauded the work being done by the Michigan State College extension department.

Mr. Larson expressed his opinion that the average farmer is not feeding his cattle well enough. He recommended a balanced grain ration the year round, with an addition of concentrates to boost milk production.

"If a farmer would take one of his cows, feed her well balanced rations, and compare her milk production with that of the rest of his herd, it would not be long before he would be properly feeding all his cattle," Larson said.

The Danforth farmer said the hope for the improvement of dairying in Delta county lies in the younger farmers, who are receptive to new ideas and are willing to make changes in their methods.

Disease Presents Problems

Mastitis and Bang's disease are the most serious livestock ailments with which the dairymen must contend, according to Mr. Sundquist. He said the establishment of an Upper Peninsula laboratory for Bang's disease work at Escanaba promises to be of great benefit. He predicted that enforcement of sanitation laws would be more rigid in the future, and that there would be a great white demand for pasteurization of milk.

Mr. Barron provided the humor of the discussion program. "Anyone can make money farming today," said Frank. "If they don't, the government payments will make it all right, anyway." The Flat Rock farmer said he had 121 beef and dairy cattle on his farm. Discussing breeding problems, he predicted that artificial insemination would come into general use on the dairy farm within a few years.

Vocational Service Program For Rotary

The Escanaba Rotary Club at its meeting yesterday noon at the Delta hotel enjoyed a program by its vocational service committee, Jay Niver, chairman.

Presenting various aspects of vocational service from the standpoint of the individual, the community and the nation were Rotarians Ed Edick, Carl Nelson, Denis McGinn and Rev. Otto Steen.

It's hard to believe such luscious muffins are sugarless and shortening-less—but they are! They owe their wonderful flavor to a combination of ginger, cinnamon, molasses and the tasty, nut-sweetness of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Paul Robeson To Sing Negro Spirituals Here

In music, Paul Robeson believes the Negro makes a definite contribution to art. That is why the great Negro singer will include a wealth of spirituals in his concert program at Town Hall this season.

Robeson is called the greatest interpreter of Negro spirituals in the world today. With utmost simplicity he presents these genuine outpourings of a suffering people, telling of their longing for the new Jerusalem, of their never-weary hope for "the good times a-comin'." Blessed with a natural gift of song, he is moved by the fundamental spirit of the music of his race, full of the passionate feeling which inspired the unknown composers of these immortal melodies.

Although Robeson was more than twenty before he began to sing in public, and was then better-known as an athlete and actor the music of his people had haunted him persistently. It was like some shadowy promise of fulfillment and it gradually became the driving force of his life.

He has since said: "If I can recreate for an audience the great sadness of the Negro slave in 'Sometimes I feel like a Motherless Child,' or if I can make them know the convict of the chain-gang, make them feel his thirst, understand his naive boasting about his strength; feel the brave gaiety and latent sadness in 'Water Boy,' if I can explain to them the simple divine faith of the Negro in 'Weepin' Mary' then I shall have increased their knowledge and understanding of my people. They will sense that we are moved by the same emotions, have the same beliefs, the same longings—that we are all human together. That will be something to work for—something worth doing."

Robeson has no favorite music, but he shares the public's love for "Ole Man River," the Jerome Kern song with which he will always be associated.

"The words get me," he confesses. "There is an underlying challenge—a cosmic philosophy to the whole thing. Here we are a toiling mass of humanity—some of us laboring away in the fields, some in the factories, others singers, writers, artists. We fret and worry and live and die. But Ole Man River, 'he just keeps on rollin' along,' and Time and Eternity roll with him."

Although Robeson has sung before royalty in England and has been hailed in the capitals of Europe, he is a man of simple tastes. He remains one of his own people.

LIQUOR GROUP WARNS VENDORS

Keep In Line With Law, U. P. Association Tells Members

Flagrant violations of the Michigan liquor laws by vendors will bring a concerted effort by the U. P. Association of Beer and Liquor Vendors to put that license out of business, it has been decided by the association at a recent meeting in Iron Mountain. The Association placed vendors strictly on notice that violators will be warned, and that action will follow to put him out of business for the protection of the business as a whole.

Robert Best, St. Ignace, secretary of the association, emphasized that selling to minors and keeping open after hours are two principal "big sticks" which are being wielded against the liquor business by leaders in the prohibition movement.

"These are the weapons they are using and will continue to use against you," Best said. He complimented vendors in Menominee county for "going a long way toward cleaning up this situation."

"Most of you men have been in business long enough to 'spot' a minor, no matter what he says about his own age. And it is better to err on the side of law obedience and good business than to take a chance in any doubtful case," Best added.

Sid Stewart, Menominee, president of the U. P. association, also voiced an appeal for observance of the law, and warned of the threat against the liquor business in failing to care for its own problems.

Earlier in his talk Best pointed out that the strength of the "anti-liquor group" should not be underestimated.

"They are a powerful group. They have the money with which

Bishop Is Elected President Of Great Lakes Area Council

George E. Bishop, Marquette secretary-manager of the Upper Peninsula Development bureau and chairman of the Michigan Tourist council, was unanimously elected president of the Northern Great Lakes Area council at its Milwaukee meeting, during which representatives of Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota and the province of Ontario agreed to joint action in promoting recreational and tourist facilities. Recreational facilities and accommodations within this area must be greatly improved if the Great Lakes states are to get their share of the post-war travel business, delegates to the meet were told.

One of them, S. Valentine Saxby, secretary of the Minnesota Arrowhead association, said the area needs more and better resorts.

Save a Life!

THE compilation of blood types in Delta county, launched by the Escanaba Lions club in cooperation with the Delta County Chapter of the American Red Cross, is a humanitarian program that deserves wholehearted support.

There is a general and fallacious belief that the development of blood plasma banks has eliminated the need for transfusions of whole blood. While it is true that blood plasma has saved thousands of lives, there are many cases that require transfusions of whole blood. These cases are usually emergency cases in which it is necessary to locate proper blood types quickly. The time element is extremely important in such cases, often the determining factor in saving a life.

The program now under way by the Lions club and the Red Cross would make available at almost a minute's notice a sizeable list of prospective blood donors of the proper blood type to meet any local emergency.

This is an appropriate time to launch this program because there are hundreds of returned servicemen who know their blood type, or can determine it easily by examining their service identification tag. Moreover, these men have had firsthand knowledge of the importance of emergency blood transfusions. In addition, the blood clinics conducted throughout the war years have further enlarged the number of persons who have been advised of their blood type.

All that is required to participate in this humanitarian program is to send your name, address, blood type and phone number to the Delta Chapter, American Red Cross, Escanaba, where the information will be properly compiled and made available for emergency use. A form published in the Escanaba Daily Press may be used for this purpose, or the information may be written on any sheet of paper and submitted to the Red Cross.

For persons who do not know their blood type but who desire to assist in the program, arrangements will be made for the typing of blood locally. Further announcement about this phase of the program will be made later.

Bishop Honored

ELECTION of George E. Bishop of Marquette as president of the newly organized Northern Great Lakes Tourist Council comes as a much deserved recognition of his long-time efforts in the tourist promotion business.

Mr. Bishop has directed the affairs of the Upper Peninsula Tourist Bureau since 1921. He took over the Bureau when it was primarily an agency to promote the sales of cutover lands, and under his leadership it was converted into a viable organization for the development of the region in the recreational, agricultural and industrial fields.

During the depression, the Bureau experienced hard-going like everyone else in the Upper Peninsula, but George Bishop managed to keep it together and make it a vital force in promoting the recovery of the Hiawathaland region. Under his direction, the Upper Peninsula became widely publicized as a vacationland. World War II brought recreational development to a standstill, but by streamlining the Bureau organization it was possible to keep it intact, ready to go into action in the postwar period.

Only a George Bishop, with his tremendous energy, tenacity and vision, could have kept the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau an active organization during the past quarter century. He is still going strong, and has plenty of work laid out for himself to do during the busy years that lie ahead.

Stassen and Bricker

INCREASING sentiment in favor of former Gov. Harold E. Stassen to be the party's standard bearer in the 1948 presidential election is noted among some Republican leaders.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, the Republican presidential candidate in 1944, has lost his popularity and is likely to be sidetracked. At the moment, former Gov. John Bricker of Ohio is still in the lead, but since Stassen returned from service in the navy he has been gaining strength. Bricker was the popular man at the 1944 Republican national conference, and probably could have been nominated if he had not swung his support to Dewey, who at the time appeared to be the candidate most likely to beat Roosevelt because of his strength in New York.

Stassen now presents himself as a fresh political horse for the Republicans to trot out for the 1948 race. He has to his credit three successful terms as governor of Minnesota, a military record in the recent war, and the ability to campaign vigorously for any cause he has decided to support. He is also close to the American people's views on many of the postwar issues. Already, he has won a good press with his public pronouncements.

The former governor of Minnesota is the type of candidate the Republican party ty needs. It is to be hoped that those who pull the strings in smoke-filled hotel rooms at convention time won't make the mistake of assuming that the Republicans can beat President Truman with anybody or nobody.

Homma Faces Trial

L. GEN. MASAHURA HOMMA, who was commander of Japanese troops which conquered the Philippines in 1942, is the second of the Japanese military leaders to face trial for war crimes. The first, General Yamashita, has already been sentenced to hang for his part in the brutalities and heinous crimes that characterized the Japanese rule in the Philippines.

The death march of Bataan, in which thousands of American and Filipino soldiers, were subjected to greatest cruelties and tortures, occurred while Gen. Homma was in command of the Japanese troops in the Philippines.

There is no disposition to convict Homma, or any other war crime defendants, before the evidence is properly presented at his trial. In true American justice, he will get a fair and impartial trial, just as did Yamashita.

Homma is specifically accused of permitting his troops to pillage, murder and plunder and other violations of the laws of war, charges similar to those of which Gen. Yamashita was found guilty. The weight of evidence collected in support of the charges is certain to be heavy. The precedent of the Yamashita trial leaves Homma without the defense that he was not responsible for the acts of his troops. He will have to present a better defense than that to escape the gallows.

Most People Fear It

THE average man fears the potentialities of the atomic bomb. At the present time he is inclined to be suspicious of machinery that can produce this terribly destructive weapon unless the machinery is in the hands of his own country. So he does not quite follow the complaint of the Association of Oak Ridge scientists consisting of men closely associated with the production of atomic bombs in America.

These scientists say the wrecking by the American Army of Occupation of the Japanese cyclotrons, machinery with which Japan was experimenting with atomic energy "is as disreputable and ill-considered as would be the burning of Japanese libraries."

It may be that some time in the future men will look back on this era of fear as ridiculous. The scientists seem to subscribe to this happy theory. But right now the fear is very real to most people.

PINE KNOTS
(Grand Rapids Press)

Walking along the main street of one of America's larger cities, you're likely to see in an occasional store window a familiar object in a strange role—a pine knot serving as a decoration. It isn't just any kind of pine knot, but one that can act as an improved "whodunnit" shelf, and one that is worn smooth and can take a high polish. You look at it and grin and think, "How the pine knot has come up in the world!"

Time was when grandfather used to roam the back forty, his eyes peeled for good dry knots with which to start a hot glowing fire in the big kitchen range. "Cord wood" was always piled high alongside the stove, but there was a box provided for the better class of fuel—and the "better class" definitely included pine knots taken from the crotch where a limb enters the trunk and the pitch "builds up."

The huge kitchen range in the farmhouse of a few decades ago has inspired many a literary eulogy. Associated with it are memories of golden pumpkin pies, overstuffed apple pies, golden-crust bread and a score of other culinary masterpieces which seemed to emerge from its capacious oven in profusion. In the fall, as one entered the kitchen, his nose was sure to be assailed by the spicy, pungent odor of chili sauce, corn relish and piccalilli—all bubbling on the range's gleaming black top.

We can understand how the memory of that stove periodically stimulates the muse of poetry. But pause to reflect for a moment—it was probably the humble pine knot that got the fire off to a roaring start and thus made possible those wondrous concoctions. Nowadays we scour the woods in fruitless search of the twisted piece of wood. Like the rail fence and the old soap boiler behind the barn, it is disappearing from the land. And so perhaps it is fitting that it be elevated to a position of honor, where the chance passerby may examine its beauties—and maybe recall the days when it was constantly getting under grandfather's foot in the dark or kindling a blaze in the kitchen range.

WORDS TO WATCH

Supple. The little-girl-next-door remarked that her body is "supple" because she "eats so much soup." As a matter of fact, when supple entered Middle English, it retained the French spelling "souple." But British scholars changed the spelling to "supple," in conformity with the original Latin word supplex, "bending the knee; suppliant."

We do hear supple pronounced "SOO-pit" occasionally, but it is an anomaly, for no word in English beginning with sup- is pronounced either "soo" or "syoo." Better conform with all such words as supply, suppose, support, etc., and say: SUH-pl.

Saboteur. Of course it's not a Federal offense to say, "sab-u-TOO-er," or even "suh-BOE-ter," as one enterprising newscaster has it. But the implication of the word is ugly enough without giving it additional ugliness of sound. French loan-

Washington — The senate finally got around to appropriating $550,000,000 for relief in Europe. They did it in such a way that the matter must go to a conference between the two houses, thereby prolonging the agony a few days more.

It has been overdue at least six weeks. The activities of UNRRA have been cut and out again for lack of available funds.

The strange, palsied delay with which congress has dragged out this vital business is a grim commentary on the times. What makes it harder to understand is that there seems to be no real motive behind it.

Part of the blame rests on Sen. Tom Connally of Texas, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations committee. Connally's dictatorial handling of legislation is producing a smouldering revolt among younger senators in both parties. As one of them put it the other day:

"They used to talk about the nine old men on the supreme court. Our club is run by six old men."

—MET LONG DELAY—

Sen. Wayne Morse, Republican of Oregon, tried a week ago to get the UNRRA appropriation voted on immediately. Denying Connally's intimation of a Republican filibuster, Morse offered a resolution which would have made it possible to dispose of the UNRRA appropriation in an hour or two. But the Republican leadership joined with the Democratic leadership to down the Morse proposal by a vote of 53 to 21.

The senate has delayed so long that a new UNRRA authorization has already been approved by the house which has acted with far more efficiency and dispatch in this matter. After two days of discussion the house authorized $1,350,000,000 to permit UNRRA to continue its operations.

In the house they proved that partisanship of the bitter, dead-end sort can stop short at our national boundaries when an issue involving American responsibility and prestige is at stake.

One of the active sponsors of UNRRA legislation was Republican Congressman Christian Herter of Massachusetts. Herter had backed an amendment which made the use of UNRRA funds conditional on allowing U. S. newspapermen into lands where food was being distributed.

Later he concluded this was a mistake. He got together with Rep. Sol Bloom, chairman of the Foreign Affairs committee of the house, and they agreed on the wording of an amendment which would express the hope of a free flow of information but would not make hungry people wait until each country met the American terms.

—SAMPLE OF STATESMANSHIP—

I think you'd call that statesmanship. It's an example for the senate to follow. The $1,350,000,000 is almost as urgently needed as the $550,000,000. If it is not approved quickly, there will be no food for desperately hungry Italy in the late winter and spring. The political rumblings resulting from that hunger—the overtones of collapse and communism—are already audible.

The contrast between the little island of prosperity and well-being that is America and the great sea of misery in the rest of the world is so sharp. Sen. Morse pointed it up when he read from the menu of the senate restaurant. They were having squab on toast that day.

For millions of Americans these contrasts are a source of embarrassment and shame. The evidence shows that over and over.

Following a sermon in one of the Washington churches on this theme, four tons of canned food were collected for distribution overseas by UNRRA. This came not out of any campaign or organized solicitation but out of the spontaneous goodwill of American citizens.

Rep. Karl Stefan of Nebraska spoke for the numerous requests coming to him for information on how the individual citizen might help. He outlined a plan to simplify voluntary giving of food to Europeans which, it is devoutly hoped, will be set up.

The stores in every city are crowded with shoppers these days. Holly and tinsel brighten the aisles. The posters say, "This will be a gay Christmas."

For millions and millions of Europeans it will be far from gay. It will be a prelude to despair unless the senate quickly follows the lead of the house.

LAKE MYSTERIES—The 1945 shipping season on the Great Lakes has come to a quietly uneventful close. There have been no violent storms and no ship sinkings. This is an unusual condition, considering that shipping continued even a few days later than normal because of the rush to get coal cargoes to Upper Lakes ports.

Last boat to clear from Escanaba was the ore carrier J. C. Williams, bound for Detroit. She cleared in the night, passed through Green Bay waters from which many of the lights, buoys and other navigation aids had been removed, and out into Lake Michigan. Skirting treacherous reefs and islands in upper Lake Michigan, the Williams maneuvered through the Straits of Mackinac and into Lake Huron, thence steamed south to Detroit.

Safe passage was made although many important lighthouses, including Minneapolis Shoal, had gone out of commission for the winter. Safe passage was made because the weather gods were kind and held back the gales that in the past have destroyed many ships as seaworthy as the Williams.

—LOST WITH ALL HANDS—

The sudden and violent storms for which the Great Lakes are known to mariners have brought many ships to the bottom of the lakes—lost with all hands.

They are the mystery ships, remembered only in words. They sailed away never to return, sometimes never to be seen again. Exactly how and when they came to their end no one knows, for no man of their crew lives to tell the tale.

Sometimes by the very mystery and legend that surround them, these ships sail on for centuries in the imaginations of men. Such a ship was the Griffin, first sailing vessel on the Great Lakes, which was lost without trace in the fall of 1679. Built by LaSalle for the fur trade, the Griffin cleared from Detroit harbor, Washington Island, in October, loaded with furs. What became of her no man knows, for she was never reported seen again.

THE BANNOCKBURN GHOST—The Griffin disappeared nearly 300 years ago, but the mystery deaths of other ships are more recent—but as much of enigma.

A score or more years ago the freighter Bannockburn sailed from Duluth one late fall morning with a crew of 22 men. The following evening she was sighted by a passing ship far out on Lake Superior, apparently in no difficulty. She was never seen again.

Only trace of the Bannockburn was an air, found on the Michigan shore a year and a half later. The icy waters gave up no more than that, and even today among older sailors who know the story, there is the feeling that the Bannockburn has become a ghost ship, a "Flying Dutchman" of Lake Superior.

For when ships labor in Superior's heavy seas, and spray congeals in ice on pilot house windows, sailors glimpse the Bannockburn—riding out the storm as if she were on water calm as a mill pond.

IT KEEPS THE DEAD—Lake Superior has the reputation for the most violent storms, the largest waves—that it never gives up its dead if a ship sinks far from

G. I.—VETERANS SERVICE
Q. My son was reported missing in March of this year. If they don't find any trace of him, how long does the War Department list him as missing?
A. A man reported as missing in action is carried on War Department records in that status for a year, unless returned to military control before that time. At the end of the year, if the man has not been located, the case is reviewed and if there is still insufficient evidence to make a finding of death, the man continues to be listed as missing. There is no set period of time in which a man may be listed as missing. He is carried in that status until there is acceptable evidence or information received by the War Department to the contrary.

Q. I was discharged from the Army on Nov. 9, 1945 when I received my first installment of mustering-out pay. I have two more checks due me but have not received the second one yet. What can I do to trace this?
A. It is suggested that you write to the Finance Officer of the Separation Centre from which you were discharged, giving full information as to your Army Serial number and date of discharge.

OF GENERAL INTEREST
Q. How many men were in the first class when the U. S. Military Academy opened in 1802?
A. The Academy at West Point was founded by Act of Congress on March 16, 1802 and was opened on July 4, 1802, with a class of ten cadets.

Q. How long did it take to build the famous New York Hippodrome, and when was it demolished?
A. Work on the building was begun on July 1, 1904, and it was completed in five months. The opening performance was on April 12, 1905. The Hippodrome was demolished between August and October, 1939.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN
Q. The water in our new house tastes peculiar, and sometimes contains black particles. What causes this?
A. It is not unusual for the water in a new system to have noticeable odors or tastes, which may disappear after the system has been thoroughly flushed by use. In the instance cited it may be caused by careless use of "pipe dope" or "flux" in making the plumbing joints.

Q. In which city is the famous Mile of Christmas Trees? What kind of trees are they?
A. They are deciduous or East Indian cedars in Pasadena, California.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

Washington—This town, deadly afraid of peacetime boredom, pricked up its ears and licked its chops when Pat Hurley issued his stentorian resignation as Ambassador to China. It then settled down to enjoy a good show.

Washington has known Pat ever since 1912 when as a dashing young attorney from Oklahoma, he used to appear before congressional committees for the Choctaw nation, and they know he always puts on a good show. Once in testifying before the senate insular affairs committee as Secretary of War, Pat shouted: "You cannot call me a liar. You can run your star-chamber sessions without me. I have taken all I can stand." Whereupon he flounced out of the room.

Some years earlier, Pat appeared before the house Indian affairs committee to oppose opening the tribal rolls of the Choctaw nation to certain Indians who claimed they were eulched out of their tribal lands. And he was severely criticized by Webster Ballinger, who pointed out that just two years before, Hurley had represented the Wards, an Indian family which sought to have the Choctaw tribal rolls opened. Thus Hurley was in the position of arguing on both sides of the same question in the brief period of two years.

Pat was not quite as ferocious in those days, however, and for some unexplained reason did not threaten to kick Ballinger out of the committee room.

—PATRICK J. O'HURLEY—

Pat Hurley has come a long way from those days when Oklahoma was an Indian territory. Bogn O'Hurley, he dropped the "O" and the Catholic religion of his father to become a Baptist, and after working his way through an Indian college, he had the courage to come to Washington, take a law degree at George Washington, and marry the daughter of Adm. Henry B. Wilson, then and now one of the most beautiful ladies in the Capital.

It is a long way from such lowly beginnings to his more recent interviews with Joe Stalin, his airplane flights through the Near East, and his powerful position as the right bower of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek. But Pat has staged a colorful personal row at almost every milestone along the way.

In Chungking, he first rowed with Gen. Al Wedemeyer over the question of sending a mission to the so-called Communist section of China to evaluate the importance of its military strength. For a while he and Wedemeyer weren't speaking to each other though they occupied adjoining bedrooms in the same house.

Later at a Chungking cocktail party, Wedemeyer's chief of staff, Maj. Gen. Robert B. McClure, chided Hurley for sending General Marshall a telegram of protest against Wedemeyer.

"You pup," boomed the ex-cowpuncher from Oklahoma, "I've shot men for less than that."

Guests had to separate the two men. The Chinese looked on, amused but not impressed. In China it brings severe loss of face to fight in public.

"Pat is Pat," mused FDR when informed of the fuss, "and there's nothing you can do about him."

—HURLEY'S GRIP AT ACHESON—

On another occasion, Hurley wrote a memo urging that American advisers be sent to establish a sort of protectorate over Iran, Iraq, and other oil lands of the Near East. This is where he had his row with Dean Acheson, whom he charged with ruining U. S. policy in Iran. The memo was inscribed: "A proposal to carry the four freedoms and the Atlantic charter to the near and middle East."

When it reached the state department, one young expert, Eugene Rostow, labelled it as "Hysterical, Messianic, Gallooney." Later, when Hurley sat down in a meeting with Rostow in Dean Acheson's office, he challenged him to a fistfight.

"Come out in the hall and repeat what you said about my program," Hurley stormed. "If you were a real man, you'd have a uniform on now. I'll bet you're one of these deferred diplomats."

Dean Acheson, who was present, interceded. Acheson is usually a mild-mannered man, but he told Hurley in no uncertain terms to curb his temper. He also told him that Rostow had been hospitalized out of the army and demanded that Hurley apologize. Hurley did so, but continued to talk about the "stuffed-shirt diplomats in the state department who were kow-towing to the British."

"It's time," he cuffed, "for the President to fish or cut a bait. I have been thinking about taking this issue to the country. The President means nothing to me. He puts his pants on one leg at a time just like the rest of us."

That was when Hurley first sounded off against the career diplomats. It was not, however, the first time he had threatened to take his issue to the country. All during the election spring and summer of 1944, Roosevelt was nervous lest Hurley should sound off against the British, their misuse of lend-lease, their operations in the Near East, and make this an election issue.

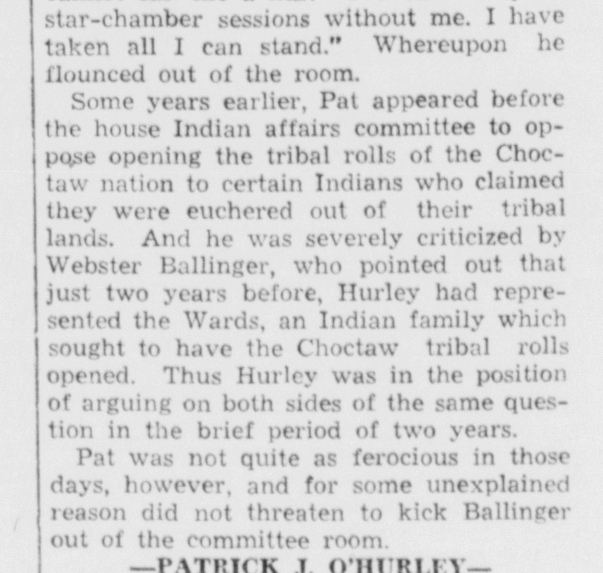

Several times in talks with friends, the rambunctious Pat had threatened to stomp the country over the question of Roosevelt's alleged close ties with "British Imperialism" and "Russian Communism." This fear, incidentally, may have been one factor in sending Hurley to far-off China.

C. J. Dwyer, road master for the C. & N. W. railroad, fell recently and fractured a bone in his left wrist. He is attending to his many duties regardless of the injury which at first caused him much pain.

In early December, 1927, the Canadian freighter Kamloops locked through at the Soo, upbound to Lake Superior. Ahead of her and in plain sight was the Canadian steamer Quedoc. Both were bound for Fort Williams, Ontario, which lies behind Isle Royale at the other end of the big lake.

It was below zero weather and a gale was blowing. The men on the two steamers could sight each other between the howling snow squalls. It was slow and rough bucking the seas, but neither ship was in difficulty.

Suddenly Isle Royale appeared dead ahead of the Quedoc, which was leading. Officers and crew busied themselves avoiding the danger of wrecking their ships on the rocky shore. Danger passed and they looked again for the Kamloops. She had disappeared, never again to be seen except by the members of her unfortunate crew, all of whom perished.

The Kamloops had joined the long list of Great Lakes mystery ships.

HURRICANE HAVOC—In mid-November, 1913, the Great Lakes were struck by a violent hurricane that lasted for three days. Loss of ships and life have been variously reported, but has been conservatively estimated at 17 ships and 250 lives. Velocity of the wind averaged 60 miles, with gusts of 70 and more.

Many ships were lost with all hands. Two of these were the Charles S. Price, ore carrier of the Hanna fleet, and the Regina, Canadian package freighter. Their fate is an outstanding mystery of the lakes.

They were last seen battling the storm together in Lake Huron and then they disappeared. After the storm the bottom of the bow of the Price was sighted floating near the entrance to St. Clair river.

The bodies of half her crew were found—some wearing life belts bearing the name Regina!

Just how the crew members of the Price obtained life belts from the Regina in that violent storm is another enigma of the lakes.

COLDS NOW
SPREADING!

Fewer colds! ... Shorter colds! 50% less sickness from colds! ... that's the certified record of Vicks Plan in a great medically-supervised winter test among 2650 children. Right in your own home, this easy guide may do less—or it may even do more for you and your family. But with colds on a rampage, this tested plan is certainly worth trying today! Full details in your package of Vicks. Briefly here's what you do:

OBSERVE a few simple health rules! Live normally. Avoid excesses. Eat simple food. Drink plenty of water. Keep elimination regular. Get plenty of rest and sleep. Avoid crowds and people who have colds.

IF A COLD THREATENS, put a few drops of clinic-tested Vicks VapoRub on each nostril at first sniffle or sneeze. (Use as directed in package.) This effective, specialized medication is expressly designed to aid your natural defense against colds—and it's used in time. VapoRub helps prevent many colds from developing. (Even when your head is all stuffed up from a mean head cold, Vicks VapoRub relieves sniffling, sneezing distress, makes breathing easier.)

WHEN A COLD STRIKES, or slips by all precautions, rub clinic-tested Vicks VapoRub on back, as well as on throat and chest at bedtime. VapoRub penetrates to the cold-congested upper bronchial tubes with soothing medicinal vapors. It stimulates throat, chest, and back surfaces like a warming poultice. This penetrating-stimulating action works for hours to relieve miseries of colds ... invites restful, comforting sleep!

NOTE: If the miserable symptoms of the cold are not relieved promptly—or if more serious trouble seems to threaten—call in your family doctor right away.

APPOINT BOARD OF RECREATION

Group Will Meet Next
Tuesday, Dec. 18,
At City Hall

The newly created city recreation board will hold its first meeting Tuesday, Dec. 18 at 7:30 o'clock, in the council room at the city hall where organizational plans will be completed, City Manager A. V. Aronson has announced.

The board members, representing a cross section of the community, follow: Mrs. Dan Gallagher, Mrs. William Leiper, Rev. Otto Steen, Rev. Fr. Martin Melican, Fred Lachapelle, John A. Lemmer, John Fawcett, Ken Gunderman, Margaret Weber and James Paul, of the Escanaba high school; Don Scott, of the students council; and two students of St. Joseph high school, yet to be selected.

In letters of appointment to members of the recreation board, City Manager Aronson declared, "The city recreation board has been formed to develop the recreation opportunities for the residents of Escanaba. This will include a comprehensive study of all the existing programs which are in operation, as well as to make specific recommendations for the addition of new types of programs. Definite plans are to be made regarding facility studies and future developments.

"It is our thought that the recreation board can be of great value to the city, through its department of recreation."

Mesabi Mines Are Bought By Cliffs

Ishpeming — The Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company, which has been operating the Canisteo properties on the Mesabi range since 1926 as agent for three owning concerns, has, with the Mesabi-Cliffs Mining company, acquired the capital stock to own the property outright.

Announcement of the acquisition of Canisteo Mining company stock by the two Cleveland organizations was made last week in Cleveland.

The Canisteo owned mining leases on the Canisteo mine and a major part of the Holman-Cliffs mine, both of them large open pit producers.

Canisteo originally leased the property in 1905 to the Oliver Iron Mining company and this agreement was in effect 20 years. The Holman-Cliffs mine was then leased to Mesabi-Cliffs and operated since that time by it. Canisteo went, under lease, to Canisteo-Cliffs Mining in 1929, an agreement lasting until 1938, when Canisteo Mining took it over. Since 1926, however, all mining operations have been carried on by Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company as the operating agent.

The Cleveland-Cliffs and Mesabi-Cliffs will continue to operate the property as their own instead of as agent for others. Offices will be in Cleveland.

Charcoal Iron Industry Pioneer Dies In West

Charles H. Schaffer, 99, a resident of Marquette many years and one of the pioneers in the lumbering and charcoal iron industry in the Upper Peninsula, died last Saturday in his home in Pasadena, Calif., where he had resided the last five years.

The village of Schaffer in Delta county was named for Mr. Schaffer, who operated a string of charcoal kilns in that vicinity for a time. He was also interested for some years in the charcoal iron furnace at Wells.

Born In Ontario
Mr. Schaffer was born in Waterloo, Ontario, April 8, 1846, and moved with his family to Grand Rapids at about the age of six. He lived there until he was 16, when he went to Texas, riding overland on horseback to a point near where San Antonio now stands. Here he worked on a large ranch and saw the big cattle drives of those days to the northern markets.

Mr. Schaffer went to old Munising in 1870 to complete his brother's contract for loading pig iron and hauling charcoal to the Munising furnace. He later took a contract to supply the furnace at Powell's point. About 1873 he built 40 charcoal kilns at a point about 25 miles west of Munising, which he called the Onota location, later building a battery of kilns three miles east of Onota and a battery at the Whitefish location about five miles west of Onota.

Supplied Furnaces
From these he supplied the Deer Lake furnace near Ishpeming, operated by W. H. Rood, and the Pioneer furnace at Negaunee. The D. S. & R. railway was built through Onota one year after his arrival.

While Mr. Schaffer made his headquarters at Onota, he was on the board of supervisors for schoolcraft county, which then included the present county of Alger. In these days he had to travel on foot to Manistique, the county seat, many times on snowshoes in the dead of winter.

He finally persuaded the people from the western end of the county to petition the state legislature and the county was cut in two, the western part being named Alger county, after Governor Alger, and the county seat was placed at Au Train, from where it was later moved to the present site at Munising.

Sold Munising Townsite
Mr. Schaffer cut the hardwood off several thousand acres of Alger county land and sold the present townsite of Munising to Timothy Nester, who started the village. Most of this timber was used at his kilns and sawmills at and around Onota location.

About 1886 he purchased the Excelsior furnace at Ishpeming, which was in a rundown condition. He rebuilt it mostly from material purchased from the owners of several old furnaces in the vicinity which had not been operated profitably.

He began operating kilns along the Chicago and North Western railway with batteries at Klamon, Spalding, Wilson, Delonguey and Schaffer, which were purchased through M. H. Maynard.

After a few years operation the Excelsior was forced to shut down.

as Lake Angeline was drained of water in order to open the Lake Angeline mine, and no other water was available. The machinery was later sold to the company operating a furnace at Newberry.

About 1899 he purchased and rebuilt the Carp furnace at Marquette and took in as a partner, Noah W. Gray, who came from the furnace at Ashland, Wis.

Operated In Lower Michigan
About 1904 he and Gray built the furnace at Boyne City, part of which was moved from the Martel furnace at St. Ignace. A few years later they built another furnace at East Jordan, part of which was moved from Valley Forge, and included among the parts were cannon balls cast during the Revolutionary War.

His last furnace was an all new one, built at Wells, and was called the Stephenson furnace in honor of U. S. Senator Isaac Stephenson, who was one of his partners in this venture. Also associated with him in the Stephenson furnace were the late A. B. Eldredge, Austin Farrell and John R. Van Evert, of Marquette.

In 1918 Mr. Schaffer sold out his interests in the Boyne City, East Jordan and Stephenson furnaces and retired from the charcoal iron business.

Oldest Bank President
During his long residence in Marquette, Mr. Schaffer was prominent in business and banking circles and took an active part in civic affairs. He was a director of the old Marquette National Bank and for many years was president of its successor, the Union National Bank. Last June, shortly after his 99th birthday, he retired as president of the Union National and was believed to be the oldest bank president in the United States. He was succeeded by the late Arthur F. Jacques, who died Oct. 24.

Mr. Schaffer was a charter member of Marquette Lodge No. 101, F. & A. M., and a member of Ahmed Temple, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine.

He leaves his daughter, Mrs. Otto H. Koch, Pasadena; three grandchildren, Charles S. Koch and Mrs. Mary Ferguson, Pasadena, and Mrs. Julia Tibbitts, Marquette.

IS MEDICINE
DESTROYING ITSELF?

★ Things dramatic capture the imagination, sometimes to the point of distorting the perspective. This is as true in medicine as in other fields. The sensational results with sulfa drugs and penicillin are examples.

Less dramatic, but responsible for saving uncounted lives, are the broader public health measures. Sewage disposal; swamp clearance; water, milk, and food inspection are but a few of these triumphs.

The physician and the pharmacist have always been leaders in the field of preventive medicine. This fact led James Brice to observe, "Medicine is the only profession that labors incessantly to destroy the reason for its own existence."

The fight, however, is far from won. Diagnosis and treatment of disease are still the primary functions of the physician. The accurate filling of prescriptions is our responsibility as pharmacists.

Wounded Veteran
Arrives At His Home In Steuben

Pfc. Vernon F. McManus, son of Mrs. F. J. McManus, of Steuben, arrived home the latter part of the week from the Percy Jones hospital center, Battle Creek, from where he recently received his honorable discharge.

Vernon was a casualty in the war, having lost his right leg while on duty in France. The enemy scored an almost direct hit on the truck he was driving.

Vernon entered the service in February, 1943, and saw plenty of action before he was injured. Among his awards are a Purple Heart medal, American Theater ribbon, Good Conduct medal, Combat Infantry badge, 2 bronze campaign stars, European-African medal, Eastern ribbon and Victory medal.

He was attached to the field artillery division during his period of service.

Economic Outlook Good
Says Research Director

Though this country is beset with a multitude of postwar problems that may well be regarded with deep concern, the general outlook for the immediate future is reasonably reassuring, Paul W. McCracken, director of research for the Federal Reserve Bank in Minneapolis, told members of the Manistique Rotary club in an address at the club's regular meeting Monday noon.

Enlarging on the subject, "Looking Ahead at Our Economic Future," Mr. McCracken stated that the general outlook appeared good. The purchasing power of the average individual is the greatest in history, War Bonds and bank deposits are also far above any previous record in history; all of which point to the soundness of our present day economic structure, he stated.

Plenty of Worries

However, the country is confronted with some very serious worries which for the present, he said, not only defy solution but also want for adequate interpretation. Chief among these problems he listed wages and prices and public debt.

The connection between wages and prices is still far from clear and President Truman's request for a fact finding board is justified, he said. Legislation aimed at the disciplining of labor, he said, is practically certain. The present policy of labor leaders to oppose any rational legislation tending to modify a one-sided situation, he asserted, will do labor an injury.

Eskymo Cagers Oppose Kingsford At Junior High School Tonight

RESERVES PLAY IN PRELIMINARY

First Game Will Start At 7:15; Main Battle At 8:30 p. m.

The Eskymos will go after their third victory of the basketball season tonight, meeting the Kingsford Flyers at the junior high school gymnasium. The reserve teams of the two schools will play a preliminary game, starting at 7:15 o'clock and the main game will get under way about 8:30 o'clock.

Coach Jim Rouman's Eskymos hung up victories in their first two starts, defeating St. Joseph, 39 to 27, in the opener and trouncing Marquette, 42 to 11, in their second game here Friday night.

Kingsford opened its season Saturday night, meeting Menominee, but the results of that game were unavailable here yesterday.

The Eskymos have two games at home this week. In addition to tonight's game with Kingsford, Escanaba will play Iron Mountain at the local junior high school gymnasium Friday night.

The Trojans of St. Joseph also have two games scheduled this week. On Wednesday they will play the Baraga Parochials at Marquette and Saturday night they will oppose Coach Brunelle's Stephenson Eagles at the Bonifas gymnasium here.

The starting lineup for the Eskymos tonight against Kingsford probably will be the same as the lineup that took the floor Friday against Marquette. This combination consists of Ohman, at center; Jack Finn and Jim Ross, forwards; Don Scott and Dufour, guards.

Officials for the game will be Lars Cameron, Gladstone, and Joe Gucky, Stephenson.

Hunters' Back Tags May Be Simplified

Lansing, Dec. 10 (AP)—Hunters' back tags combining letters and numerals, similar to the auto license numbering system, may replace the present "unwieldy" system, G. A. Walker, chief of the state conservation department's general operations division, said today.

Walker said both hunters and law enforcement officers have complained that the consecutive system of numbering for tags displayed on hunters' backs is hard to read and remember. There are more than 550,000 small game hunters and 250,000 deer hunters.

The Sports Parade

By Ken Gunderman

Throughout the war years there were increasing evidences that sports were headed for a postwar boom of gigantic proportions. In the first football season since the firing ceased on the battlefields of the world, attendance at college games increased 42 per cent over the 1944 totals. Average attendance at college games in 1945 was 20,589, compared with 15,896 the previous year. The pro season is not yet completed but the final figures undoubtedly will show a marked upswing and the largest attendance in the history of professional football.

The bonanza is being experienced in high school athletics, also. Although football attendance at Escanaba high school home games in 1945 failed to set a new record there was a sharp increase over 1944. The full impact of the upsurge in athletic interest, however, may be felt during the present basketball season. Attendance at the first two local games

All-America Pro Boss Crowley Tells Of Big Deal

New York, Dec. 10 (AP)—Jim Crowley, commissioner of the All-America football conference, said tonight that the circuit had paid $100,000 to Dan Topping to have him operate a franchise in the Yankee Stadium.

Topping, part owner of the Yankee baseball club and a majority stockholder in the Brooklyn Tigers of the National football league, also was allowed to enter the circuit without paying an entry fee, Crowley added.

The conference executive said the other eight clubs of the circuit contributed the $100,000 to pay Topping because "the desirability of having a good attraction in New York is obvious."

Another conference official, who declined to be quoted by name, said "The price we paid Topping to become the ninth member of the conference was well worth it since the league couldn't possibly survive without a New York team."

Crowley said the conference may increase its $10,000 asking price for the tenth and last berth in the circuit because of money laid out by the other eight teams. Four or five groups are seeking to join the league.

While at Georgia Mehre developed such stars as Catfish Smith, who became his assistant at Georgia and Ole Miss before entering the air forces. Among Mehre's famous pupils at Ole Miss were Parker Hall, Junior Hovious and Merle Hapes.

Dangerous mixture ...

During the war there was little production of civilian goods, and a lot of the things people had were worn out or used up—

People did not spend the high wages they earned, so savings increased rapidly.

The result is that America has built up tremendous buying power.

Lots of buying power and little to buy make a dangerous combination—like chemicals that explode when put together.

When people need things badly and have plenty of money, they are apt to pay too much for what they need. INFLATION then begins!

It's a dangerous mixture—shortage of goods and plenty of money.

The answer to high prices and inflation is plenty of goods.

America's factories should be working day and night to turn out the things people need—to balance needs with goods.

Instead—what do we have? A demand by UAW-CIO leaders for a 30 per cent wage increase. More than that, a strike which has closed down General Motors plants. Both are inflationary. Both make the mixture still more dangerous.

CITY LEAGUE BEING FORMED

More Basketball Players Sought; Meet Thursday

At least five teams and possibly more will be entered in the city basketball league this winter, George Grenholm, city recreation director, reported yesterday.

There are openings for more teams and more players, however, and anyone desiring to play in the city league should report Thursday evening at 7:15 o'clock at the junior high school gymnasium.

Two Escanaba teams, two from Gladstone and one composed of Escanaba and Bark River players have been entered in the league thus far. All of the players will meet in a mass practice session Thursday night and the league will have the use of the junior high school gymnasium Tuesday and Thursday evening of each week.

Members of the Tom Swift team, composed of all World War II veterans, will meet at 6:30 tonight at Ludington Motors and from there will go to Bark River for a practice session.

The team has been entered in the Escanaba city league and is composed of Dick Christensen, Tom Dufour, Ray Gangstad, Bob Ranguette, Gordy Hurley, Roy Johnson, Ben Klieaman, Babe Klieaman, George Shomin and Keith McDonald.

Armstrong Pupil Wins Easy Verdict Over Fritz Zivic

New York, Dec. 10 (AP)—Cecil Hudson, Los Angeles protege of Henry Armstrong, won an easy 10-round decision over the veteran Fritz Zivic of Pittsburgh, at Madison Square Garden tonight. Hudson weighed 151, Zivic 150½ pounds.

Hudson kept on top of the cage Pittsburgher all the way. His left hooks and jabs to the jaw and forehead, mixed with solid rights to the body, seldom gave the former welterweight champion a chance to bring his ring lore into play.

Hudson lost the third round because of a low blow, but nevertheless he was far ahead on the cards of all three officials. Referee George Walsh, Judge Tom Gilfoyle and the Associated Press each gave Hudson eight rounds and Zivic two. Judge Harold Barnes called it 9-0.

At the end Zivic was cut about the forehead and mouth while Hudson, a jumping jack in the ring, was unmarred.

A crowd of 7,481 paid $22,575 to see the card.

Vote Delayed On Plea Of Pacific Coast To Become Major League

BY SID FEDER

Chicago, Dec. 10 (AP)—Baseball's big leagues, after hours of conferences, today delayed until Wednesday a decision on the Pacific Coast league's plea to become a major loop, and, away from their meeting room, completed the first important player deal of the winter get-together.

This ivory transaction saw Frank (Buck) McCormick, first-base slugger and one-time most valuable player in the National league, sold by the Cincinnati Reds to the Philadelphia Phillies for an estimated $30,000 slice of Phil's Owner Bob Carpenter's bankroll and one player to be named later.

Although the diamond moguls approved the promotion of the International league, American Association and Pacific coast league to "AAA" classification, the Southern Association and Texas league to "AA" and the South Atlantic league (Sally) to 'A', they deferred until their joint meeting Wednesday the coast loop's request to become the third major circuit in the history of baseball.

"We had only a general discussion of the Pacific Coast league's request," American League President Will Harridge and National league proxy Ford Frick explained afterward. "It could not be decided until the joint meeting Wednesday."

MEHRE RESIGNS AT MISSISSIPPI

Rebels Seek New Coach; Job Is Reported "Wide Open"

Oxford, Miss., Dec. 9 (AP)—The University of Mississippi was in the market today for a football coach.

The resignation of Harry Mehre, who tutored the Ole Miss Rebels since 1938, was announced Saturday night by Chancellor Sam Butts who said the job was "wide open" with no applicants in sight.

The new coach will be chosen by the board of trustees of state institutions of higher learning on recommendation of the University's Athletic Committee, which is composed of alumni, faculty members and the student body president.

Mehre declined to discuss the reasons for his resignation, and said his future plans were not yet definite. He may or may not continue coaching, he said, and indicated that he had a business venture under consideration.

Teammate of Gipp

The affable Mehre came to Ole Miss after 14 years of coaching at the University of Georgia where his teams stymied Georgia Tech in seven out of nine games.

Mehre learned his football under the late Knute Rockne at Notre Dame and played with "Rock's" teams for three seasons, two of them when the Irish was undefeated. He was a teammate of the immortal George Gipp as a sophomore and was an all-pro center during the early days of professional football.

Rebel teams under Mehre won 39 games, lost 27 and tied one. The first four years of his tenure, before the armed forces drained off the material, were the best. But for consolation in 1944 and 1945, Mehre's elevens downed their arch rivals, Mississippi State.

While at Georgia Mehre developed such stars as Catfish Smith, who became his assistant at Georgia and Ole Miss before entering the air forces. Among Mehre's famous pupils at Ole Miss were Parker Hall, Junior Hovious and Merle Hapes.

Veterans Forming Bowling League

An ex-servicemen's bowling league is being formed at the Arcade alleys and will begin operating in the next week or two, Harry Gafner reported yesterday. Veterans desiring to join the league are asked to contact Gafner or Ed Gravelle.

REDSKINS WIN EASTERN TITLE

Pro Football Title At Stake Next Sunday At Cleveland

Washington, Dec. 9 (AP)—Leaving no doubt of their superiority on this particular afternoon, Washington's Redskins beat New York's Giants 17-0 to go into a world championship pro football playoff with Cleveland's Rams next Sunday.

Turning loose their brilliant array of runners, along with Sammy Baugh's accurate throwing, the Redskins broke down New York's stubborn defense for two touchdowns in the second half. The victory carried with it the eastern division title of the National League.

This was a game that the Redskins wanted above all others this season, with a probable payoff out of more than $2,000 for each player riding on the result. So they never gave the Giants a look-in.

Score On Baugh Pass

But Coach Steve Owen threw up such a tenacious line that it was well along in the third period before the Redskins added a touchdown to the 23-yard field goal scored by End Joe Aguirre in the opening quarter.

It was a Baugh pass that first sent the Redskins over. He tossed 25 yards to End Less Dye who caught the ball on the goal line and spun across.

After the Redskins' second touchdown Baugh experienced a rare thrill by scoring himself for the second time in his nine-year professional career. Aguirre's kick for the extra point was blocked but Baugh scored up the ball and ran around end for the conversion.

'ECK' ERDLITZ DIES IN MIAMI

Funeral Will Be Held In Menominee Wednesday Or Thursday

Menominee, Dec. 8.—Richard (Eck) Erdlitz, 49, well known football and basketball coach and former National Pro League grid official died at 5:20 Saturday at Miami, Fla. after several years illness with high blood pressure.

Erdlitz who starred at Menominee high school and later coached at Iron Mountain, Oshkosh, Wis., and Miami, Fla., high schools before joining the coaching staff at Northwestern University in 1944 became ill early this fall in Evanston, Ill. He recovered sufficiently to visit Menominee and then went to Florida where he planned to spend the winter.

His immediate family was with him when he died. The body will be brought to Menominee for burial and is expected to arrive Tuesday or Wednesday and funeral services will be held Wednesday or Thursday depending on arrival.

Born in Menominee May 3, 1896 a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Erdlitz, he attended St. John's parochial school and Menominee high school here. He continued his education at Oshkosh State Teachers College and the University of Michigan.

Gridiron Star

Eck first earned a football reputation in 1915 when he scored the only touchdown as Menominee nipped Marinette 6-0 and the following year his field goal defeated the Marines, 3-0. Among his grid stars as a coach were Gene Ranzani of Iron Mountain, who is now with the Chicago Bears and his son Dick Erdlitz, who played at Oshkosh, later starred at Northwestern University and is now with the Philadelphia Eagles.

New Slate Elected

By OLYMPIC CLASSEN

New York, Dec. 10 (AP)—The U. S. A. Sports Federation changed its name to the U. S. Olympic association today and elected an almost entirely new slate of officers as the National Collegiate Athletic association and the National AAU smoked the athletic pipe of peace.

Avery Brundage of Chicago was re-elected president of the Olympic group for his fifth four-year term but was the only one of the old officers to survive.

Kenneth L. Wilson of Chicago, Big Ten commissioner, was elected vice president.

Brundage, after the meeting, said that for "25 years the NCAA and the AAU have been striving for the same goal but along different paths. As of today, we are using the same road."

Season's Total, 110 Points

Scintillating Steve did all his scoring in the last half. His first touchdown came on a 29-yard race following a lateral from Al Sherman in the opening moments of the third period.

Van Buren tied Hutson's record with only four minutes remaining. He added to his glory by booting extra points after his last two scores.

Thus he rolled up a season's total of 110 points, 13 better than Hutson's 97. Van Buren also locked away the ground gaining championship of the season.

Power Equipment Goal In Sugar Beet Industry

The shrinking acreage devoted to the production of sugar beets, due primarily to the labor shortage, may be changed in the future to vast sugar beet farms where the planting, cultivation and picking are completely mechanized.

In Delta county the production of sugar beets this year took another drop, with only about 100 acres in production, principally in the Bark River area, it was reported by the AAA office. This decrease occurred despite the importation of a number of Mexican laborers to assist in the back-breaking work in the beet fields.

Even in peacetime the difficulty of obtaining persons willing to engage in the sweating, stooping labor which beet growing entails was one of the principal reasons for the lack of interest shown by farmers in beet production. In an effort to become self-sufficient and end its traditional reliance on subsidies of tariff protection, the sugar beet industry is proposing to completely mechanize itself within the next five years. This will also end the difficulty of securing field labor.

Refined at Menominee
The sugar beets grown in Delta county, as in other sections of the Upper Peninsula and in Northern Wisconsin, are produced under contract with the Superior Sugar Refining company at Menominee. The refinery is expected to end its seasonal run late this month, according to General Manager August Ludwig. Sixty thousand tons of beets were processed there last year, and there was a reported 30 per cent tonnage increase in 1945.

Because of the sugar shortage the government still wants as many beets as farmers will grow and is aiming at a million acre goal. This year only a little more than 700,000 acres were planted, and the million acre goal also failed in 1944.

The Beet Sugar Development Foundation has many members who believe that the industry cannot survive unless the goal of mechanization is reached within five years. They point to the peacetime labor shortage, with the industry largely on its own in bidding for labor, as the reason. The use of imported Mexican labor and prisoners of war is a thing of the past.

Planting Pellets

Among the new machines for the sugar beet industry is a planter, and pelleted planting. The latter method is the planting of single seeds in smooth, round pellets which contain plant food and chemicals to make the seed resistant to disease and to hasten germination.

Cultivation can be handled with an ordinary corn cultivator or with special mechanical beet thinner. In the west where irrigating is important, new techniques have been developed.

A number of farm machinery companies are perfecting designs for sugar beet harvesters, and others are improving on units which are already in use in the field. Most of the models slice off the tops before digging the beet roots. There are both small models for the family farm, and the large commercial models.

Meanwhile the government is paying an even higher subsidy to the sugar beet industry. When the war started beet farmers were getting $8.50 a ton. For the past two years it has been $12.50, but the government has boosted the support price to $13.50 for 1945.
